2-DAY RYDER CUP TOURNAMENT (July 22 & 23, 2023)

Saturday and Sunday, July 22 & 23, 2023 the 1st annual 2-day Sheridan Ryder Cup was held. The two teams were drafted by John Haberman Jr. and Chuck Panepinto. The format was DAY 1: (1-9) Two-Man Best Ball; (10-18) Two-Man Alternate Shot. DAY 2: 18-Hole Singles Matches. As you can see by the results, Team Haberman went out to a big lead on Day 1 only to have Team Panepinto close the gap and even take the lead during Day 2. In the end, the last few groups went 4½ - ½ to pull out a close victory for Team Haberman. Any feedback we received was very positive so this should become an annual event.

Dennis Buckley June 11, 1947 ~ July 24, 2023 (age 76)

The entire club mourns the loss of Dennis.

His friend, Jim Duggan, wrote the following:

Much like on the golf course where no two swings are ever alike, our ways of grieving loss are never the same. I'd like to think that I am a stoic but my tears at this moment belie that notion.

Some mornings when I drive to Sheridan, I take for granted its bucolic embrace. I take for granted the people I'll see there: the cashiers and starters, the custodians of our course and, even sometimes, the vendors whose hours vary widely. In years gone by, some mornings I even overlooked the joy of playing a round with Dennis Buckley. Until this year, Dennis and I had been part of a fairly regular foursome. He was always first to arrive and typically would be seated at his makeshift locker in the parking lot. He had a little folding stool that served him well as he donned his shoes for that particular day and, often he'd be holding court with anyone who happened by - other golfers, the cart guy, the lawn mowers, Sheridan's own Sling Blade or the folks who collected bottles and cans from the refuge. Dennis didn't take them for granted nor did he miss an opportunity to unleash his unmistakable chortle as he shared an aside with virtually anyone at Sheridan. This is what endeared him to so many.

I'd like to think that it was his intellect that served him so well. He had a steel trap memory that he called upon with frequency in recalling song lyrics, minis trivia from virtually any area one might conceive, sporting events, peoples' names and politics. One quickly learned to never engage Dennis in political discourse unless one was a devotee of Rush Limbaugh. Dennis could cull up facts and numbers faster than the software systems he once sold. And, as affable as he could be, he could just as quickly dismiss the pretenders. He didn't readily suffer fools.

We learn so much about others on the golf course. I learned that Dennis was a very good high school swimmer (those feet of his could qualify as fins). I learned that he was voted "Best Dressed" in his senior year at Ken East, a trait that transferred easily to his golfing attire. I learned that he met and married his high school sweetheart, Judy, that they spent time in California (his halcyon years) and that he sired two of his favorite people in the world, his daughters, Brianna and Laurie, that he was a devoted husband, father and grandfather and always spoke glowingly of their roles in his life.

He had every intention of being out on the course again this year but fate tossed him a shank. He battled successfully with two different aneurysms, each requiring significant surgery and, even as he was succeeding at rehabilitation, he began experiencing vertigo and unsteadiness. He made it to the course a few times early in the season as it provided an opportunity to consort with some of his pals but, even then, it was an effort to get to and from his car. He showed up at Thursday breakfasts, sharing his views and books that he'd been reading until that proved too difficult.

I had the privilege of spending a few moments with him on his final day. He certainly wasn't the Dennis who I knew in the parking lot at Sheridan, yet I could sense an inner peace that he knew that his final earthly round was coming to its conclusion. I surmised his chortle, his typical tip of his visor on #18, and his: "It's been pleasure".

Indeed, Dennis, "it's been a pleasure". Jim Duggan
